During the year survey work was completed on tracts Nos. 7, 2 and 20 and work was started on Tract No. 21. As predicted in prior annual reports the percentage of new inspections in field work has continued to drop. At present only one in three field inspections is an initial visit to a structure. The volume of required recalls and complaint investigations has increased so greatly that nearly two-thirds of field time is spent on re-investigations.

Through the years the Division has trained personnel from new housing code departments from such cities as Warwick, Newport and East Providence in this state and from Fall River in Massachusetts. The past year the Division began the training of the entire field staff of the new Housing Code Department for the City of Boston.

Although the cooperation received from property owners has been splendid a small minority of persistent violators has forced an increase in prosecutions and warrants on 122 pieces of property were successfully processed in Providence Police Court. During the coming year an accelerated court schedule is planned. As stated many times in the past, the Division undertakes prosecution with reluctance, but there is no alternative if we are to be fair with the 98 percent of house owners who have spent time and money on improving their property.

As a recognized member of the Providence Urban Renewal team this Division periodically has assisted other departments in survey and study work. For the third time a special survey was made of the Lippitt Hill periphery area and another is being prepared for the same location.

Manpower and advice were provided for housing studies for a team of FHA authorities and the Community Renewal Workshop Staff.

On two occasions the Director made evening trips to the Woonsocket, R. I. City Hall to address and show before-and-after color slides to public gatherings. These presentations were made at the request of Woonsocket officials who were seeking support for a proposed Housing Code Bill referendum on the November election ballot. The bill passed.

At present the City of Providence is the pace setter in housing code enforcement work in New England. We hope to remain in this position.
