IN CITY COUNCIL

AUG 14 1969

APPROVED:

Wm. J. ...

CLERK

August 14, 1969

To the Honorable the City Council
of the City of Providence

Keegan, Lygo - Tom Moran

Gentlemen:

We face a new fiscal year and a new series of fiscal problems. Or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that we continue to face an old series of fiscal problems, but with new and ever more serious - and more disturbing - implications.

We find ourselves within a ring of circumstances characterized by needs which are almost limitless, and by resources which are at the breaking point. This ring of circumstances continues to tighten about Providence, as indeed it does about every American city.

In various meetings in Washington, and in other cities, and in the deliberations of the United States Conference of Mayors, I have spoken out vigorously to the point that while we are meeting - with mingled desperation and hope - what has been called the "plight of the cities" - what actually lies collectively before us is a national

of the City of Providence

-2-

August 14, 1969

dilemma, and for which the ultimate solution must rest upon federal recognition and reaction.

Pending that time - and I pray it will not be long delayed - we must fend for ourselves, and address our efforts to our straightened condition in a resolute and forthright manner. In this vein I present to you this evening a proposed budget for fiscal 1969-1970 recommending expenditures of $52,644,682 and anticipating receipts of $52,699,278, showing a "book balance" therewith of $54,596.

Fiscal 1969-1970 will be - literally - a unique year consisting of the nine months between October 1, 1969 and June 30, 1970. This fact in itself deserves full explanation.

In resolving the deficit operations of the Providence School System, which I shall present subsequently and at more length in this message, we faced the alternative of a substantial increase in the real property tax or the adoption of the shorter year. The logic in selection of the shorter year lies in recognition of the fact that retirement of the school deficit and achievement of a "pay as you go" status, once accomplished is expected to restore a normal

of the City of Providence

-3-

relationship between and among educational requirements and the financial demands of other departments and functions rightfully expecting appropriations from the total revenues available for their support.

Foreshortening of the fiscal year has been publicly referred to by certain critics as a "gimmick" to avoid a tax increase. I say to this Honorable Body this evening that "gimmick" or no "gimmick" I regard avoiding a tax increase - so long as that is possible - as an effort reflecting prudence and wisdom.

Because the year ahead, being nine calendar months, is in so many respects dissimilar from the present or past twelve month years, I shall devote very little time to attempting comparisons, leaving it to you Gentlemen to make such detailed analyses as you may wish, based upon the budget document submitted herewith.

Two important observations do appear necessary at this point:

First, we are dealing, beginning October 1st with a fiscal year which is three-fourths the usual fiscal year, but few expenditure categories exhibit a three-fourths re-

To the Honorable the City Council
of the City of Providence

-4- August 14, 1969

lationship to a full twelve month operation. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being that our annual operating costs do not fall into twelve equal monthly installments. Hence the cost for operating the city government for the next nine months will amount to approximately ninety percent of the true cost of the present twelve month year. This in itself is a sobering thought and a cause of genuine concern for the problems which may present themselves in the fiscal year next succeeding the budget year, namely, the twelve months of fiscal 1970-1971.

Second, receipt categories - like expenditure categories - in some cases vary markedly from a three-fourths relationship, most significantly in the area of real and personal property taxes. In the nine months between October 1, 1969 and June 30, 1970 this budget anticipates the collection of $35,021,034 or some 102 percent of the property taxes due and payable in the present twelve month year. In this single fact is the sum and substance of a carefully considered plan to meet present financial emergencies. It is in the difference between ninety percent in over-all expenditures and 102 percent in property taxes, that I can see a way clear to achieving a financial balance in fiscal 1969-1970, and hopefully in fiscal 1970-1971, while at the same time meeting our obligations to residents and taxpayers. In

of the City of Providence

-5-

this connection, however, let there be no mistake and no misrepresentation: the payment of a twelve month equivalent in real and personal property taxes within the new nine month fiscal period will not be a painless procedure. Nevertheless it has the virtue of being a "one-time shot," unlike an increase in the tax rate which would establish recurring premium payments each and every tax year.

With your permission I would like now to move descriptively into certain principal functions of our city government which have shaped our financial picture today, and which will create new dimensions for our future next year - and in succeeding years. Earlier in this message I referred to a percentage of the true cost of operating the city government for the present twelve-month year. The difference between the operating costs budgeted a year ago, and present true operating costs is the largest single factor with which we must contend, and is primarily accounted for by deficit spending under the former School Committee. The facts are these: the recommended and approved budget for the present fiscal year amounted for all purposes to $53,422,294. In addition thereto during the course of the year, and for the reason above cited, it became necessary to make a supplementary appropriation for educational purposes

of the City of Providence

of $5,550,000 to keep our public schools in operation. Other supplementary appropriations of $150,000 for welfare purposes, $50,000 in connection with a reorganized Department of Public Property, and other and lesser supplementary appropriations, will cause the true cost of fiscal 1968-1969 to exceed $59,000,000 and approach a level of $60,000,000. Wishful thinking being of little value in financial matters, it is upon this basis of the present year's true cost that we must consider and take action for the year to come.

By reason of its being the largest single category - as well as recently the most unstable - I will turn first to education. In the budget document before you you will find a recommended $22,968,750 for the nine months for the Providence Public School System for fiscal 1969-1970. Included within this amount is $21,700,000 for operating purposes during the next fiscal period, $1,250,000 to retire the remaining school deficit, and $18,750 for the Public School Estates Revolving Fund. Further, the principal and interest payments on school capital debt in the new fiscal period will approximate $1,423,000. The total for educational expenditures recommended in this budget is therefore in excess of $24,390,000, or 46.3 percent of the total of all municipal expenditures proposed next year for financing

of the City of Providence

-7-

August 14, 1969

of all of the activities of city government. Recalling that we depleted our own reserves, accumulated by economies over several years to provide the $5,550,000 to meet the school crisis this year, and that the 46.3 percent recommended in next year's budget for educational purposes is up from some 30 percent when we first took office, I think that no one, looking objectively at the problems of financing central city operation, can say this is anything other than a very real and solid commitment to the upgrading of our school system. I believe it is a commitment which we must accept and underwrite, and that we can do this constructively since we will have, in fiscal 1969-1970, a new appointed School Committee which has demonstrated diligence, patience, and rationality in the approach to educational issues. Further, that Committee is served by a Business Management function reporting jointly to the Committee and to the Superintendent. I consider this arrangement essential, in a kind of "check and balance" relationship, if we are to achieve better education within our ability to meet the cost of necessary improvements.

Next and of great relative importance to the urban scene today is the matter of public safety. The budget before you proposes $7,444,833 to cover the various departments and divisions included in this category. The largest component

of the City of Providence

-8-

of this recommended cost is expenditures proposed for police and fire protection. I am firmly committed - as I believe you Gentlemen of the Council are also - to the maintenance of law and order with justice, and my recommendations, consistent with available resources, reflect that commitment. I am, however, unable to report to you at this time a fully anticipated final cost for these protective services. I have included within the budget for this category $350,000 representing a ten dollar a week salary increase for both police and fire; neither has accepted this offer, and as of this moment fire department salaries are going to arbitration and police department salaries remain in negotiation.

In former years I have included prominently in this message my hopes and aspirations for achieving a more economically sound, a more livable City of Providence through stepped up activities in urban renewal. I maintain those same hopes and aspirations and would be remiss were I not to report to you concerning them. As I said to this Council in my message of last year, we are already experiencing significant increases in rateable property investment, reflecting a continuing and increasing confidence in our city on the part of private investors. This trend has continued and is demonstrated in the fact that approximately half of the net increase in anticipated tax revenue for fiscal 1969-1970 will derive from new

of the City of Providence

-9-

August 14, 1969

private investment in urban renewal areas. I expect renewal-stimulated revenues to increase very substantially in downtown Providence within the next several years, particularly as new investment becomes induced by the presence in the Weybosset Hill area of a new and attractive Sports-Convention Center.

During the next fiscal period we will be entering into new developmental procedures, instituted by the federal government, involving new concepts of planning and execution of urban renewal projects. Referred to as NDP (Neighborhood Development Program) the basic approach of the new concept is a federal "pay as you go" operation. A community can no longer enter into a financial aid contract with the federal government for an advance period of five to ten years. The concept now requires a city to implement plans for a twelve-month period. If the objectives for this period are substantially completed, then - and only then - will federal funding be approved for the second year.

Pursuit of this program with its promises of earlier and larger rewards, together with the opening of renewal field offices in Model Cities, West Broadway and Federal Hill East, will require for fiscal 1969-1970 the addition of fifty-four new positions within the Department of Planning and Urban Development. As in the past, three-fourths of the net cost will be met from federal funds; the local one-fourth is provided by a recommended increase of

of the City of Providence

-10-

August 14, 1969

$100,000 in round figures in the Item 0 for PUD.

Model Cities, which a year ago was in planning stages, has recently been allocated $2,200,000 to effectuate, during the course of the next year, some twenty odd programs of physical, social and economic betterment for the Model Cities area and its residents. Like NDP Model Cities will be federally financed on an annual "pay as you go" basis. Unlike NDP, federal participation is larger than three-fourths. The proposed budget recommends a bargain $60,000 to be expended as the local share of the $2,200,000 federal grant.

Because, Gentlemen, our circumstances are both straightened as noted - and complex - this year's budget message may well seem an extended one. In summary and conclusion I must say this to you: by virtue of a fiscal year next year - and next year only - of three months lesser duration, and with the collection of twelve months' revenue during this new fiscal period, I believe we can become fully current and completely balanced in terms of the proposed budget as projected to June 30, 1970. Since this balance is of a precarious nature at best, I look with some apprehension - as we all must - to fiscal 1970-1971. It is obvious to me, as I am sure it is to you Gentlemen of the Council,

To the Honorable the City Council
of the City of Providence

-11-

August 14, 1969

that as a central city the demands for services, supportive and other, are characteristically high, and despite our urban renewal efforts, our expectations of increased local revenues must be realistically modest. In short, the prospect that the needs of our citizens, and consequent demands for increased services, will outstrip the local ability to finance these needs and demands, is a very real and a very sombre prospect.

In my opinion, we are going to have to look increasingly to the federal government which in considering at least a token Revenue Sharing Program has indicated the stirring of an increased awareness of local financial problems. In my opinion too, we are going to have to look to the State of Rhode Island for increased financial help, particularly in the area of public schools, an area in which the cities of this State are seriously discriminated against in the application of the Grant-in-Aid to Education formula.

Only a few days ago our local paper carried a banner headline announcing 29 towns and cities are increasing property taxes - some by very substantial margins - 29 Gentlemen, out of a total of 39. Ten, of which Providence is one, have not proposed a tax rate increase for next year.

To the Honorable the City Council
of the City of Providence

-12-

August 14, 1969

With your assistance and understanding, with the utmost in economy and increased efficiency in administration, and with the earnest hope that unforeseen and untoward events will not upset the precarious balance to which I have referred, it is my hope we may continue another year to similarly hold the tax line, for we must frankly recognize that a very substantial tax increase is mutually inconsistent with our basic objective of securing reinvestment in the rebuilding of our City.

Gentlemen, I thank you for your many courtesies and for your cooperation during the past year, under sometimes trying circumstances. I look forward to our continuing partnership in the fiscal period which lies ahead.

Respectfully submitted,

Joseph A. Doorlay, Jr.
Mayor of Providence
