Community Service Award

Mary Ross

Mary Ross and community service are synonymous terms in her neighborhood. A mother of nine children, Mary has devoted much of her adult life making life better for her city.

Just last year, she was instrumental in driving drug traffickers away from Bucklin Park, where she has been employed as Director of the swimming pool for 18 years. She is active in the West End Crime Watch. Mary is a founder and former president of the West End Community Center.

An education advocate, Mary was a member of the Providence School Board for 8 years. She was a teacher assistant in Providence Elementary Schools and chairs the Gilbert Stuart Task Force and worked to obtain crossing guards for the area. She served on PTA groups for Vineyard Street, Asa Messer and Gilbert Stuart schools. She also finds time for the Rhode Island Girl Scouts and Elmwood Little League Women's Auxiliary.

Listing all of Mary's contributions would fill volumes but this gives some idea of why we love her and cite her as a dedicated community servant.
