Dear Sirs,

During the Fiscal year, October 1, 1967 and September 30, 1968, the office of the Recorder of Deeds received for record 12,017 documents. This is an increase over the previous year.

| | |
|--|---------------|
| Miscellaneous, Writs, Attachments, etc | 3384 |
| Deeds | 4053 |
| Mortgages | 2370 |
| Discharge of Mortgages | 1448 |
| Write-Ins (Discharges) | 762 |
| | 12,017 |

A fee was charged for recording 11,127 documents which resulted in gross receipts of $35,567.80.

There were 890 Documents submitted for recording by the office of Minimum Housing of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, for which a fee was not paid. In my judgement no other Department of The State or City Government receives this privilege. I recommend that a fee be paid for these recordings.

During the year covering this report the Realty Transfer Tax took effect.

Under the 1% requirement for a period of 100 working days a total of $93,819.79 was collected. The State of Rhode Island received $92,881.61; The Department of the Recorder received $936.18.

Under the Real Estate Conveyance Tax which took effect on May 13, 1968, a total of $30,140.85 was collected. The State of Rhode Island received $27,400.78 and this Department received $2,740.07.

Our gross Receipts reached $39,244.05. Our total expenditures for operations & personal was $70,638.53, or a net operating deficit of $31,394.48.

I sincerely recommend that the Statutes of the State of Rhode Island be amended by increasing the fees for recordings that the services, both public and private transactions, reflect their true cost for maintaining these records forever.

It is my recommendation also, that the new computerized system of indexing be accepted by the City of Providence after careful study of this industry.

Respectfully submitted,

Report of the President

The 91st year of the Providence Public Library was an abbreviated one. The trustees had concluded that there were certain fiscal benefits to be attained by having our year conform with that of the City of Providence because of the substantial revenue received therefrom each year. This, therefore, was a 9 month year, which ended on September 30th. As anticipated, we suffered a net deficit from all operations including special Library Funds and Building Development and Repair Fund—in the amount of $47,209.37. In spite of a substantial increase in the allocation from the City, another substantial deficit is anticipated for the current fiscal year. Attempts are being made to limit it by reduced expenses and enlarged revenue. However, we have found it expedient to institute substantial salary raises in conformance with new salary standards adopted by the Personnel Committee.

At the end of August Mr. Sherman surrendered the management reins to Mr. F. Charles Taylor and was thereafter elected a member of the Corporation.

Sevellon Brown has now completed twenty years on the Board and Knight Edwards, fifteen. We lost by death during the year Robert L. Knight, Jr., who had served five years representing the Elmwood Public Library.

The Arthur D. Little report has proven of value in restructuring our professional staff and will continue to be of help. The report's conclusions as to the management of our endowment fund were indecisive; the Finance Committee has determined that for the present, at least, we should continue the current procedures, which, we feel, have proven effective.

The Rochambeau Branch appears to be the one requiring first attention for possible enlargement. Up to this time no practical way has been found to do so.

A substantial increase in contributions to our public appeal has resulted from the efforts of Mr. Van Houten and the staff, assisted by the creation of a group of interested individuals called Friends of PPL.

Philip B. Simonds

President, Board of Trustees

January 1969

What has the library been doing for you?

In 1968,* the Providence Public Library served 54,836 registered borrowers who sought an amazing variety of books and information from the main library, its eight neighborhood branches and the bookmobile.

686,280 books, magazines, records, pictures and pamphlets were borrowed.

99,903 research and fact-finding questions were answered.

PPL helped your children develop a sense of wonder and excitement and a desire to explore the world of books and ideas.

6,077 boys and girls attended 424 story hours.

6,571 children visited the Library in organized groups such as Girl Scouts and school classes.

7,030 boys and girls attended 324 programs of films, music, art and dramatics.

Library-sponsored clubs attracted 1,183 young people.

The Reader's Advisor helps students use the card catalog.

* Because the Library changed its fiscal year to October 1-September 30, effective October, 1968, this report covers the nine month period from January-September, 1968.

PPL assisted you in your job, your education, and in making the most of your leisure time.

The Business Industry and Science Department answered over 24,000 telephone reference questions—over 70% from Rhode Island business and industry.

An average of 10 Xerox copies of patents were mailed out daily to patent attorneys and businessmen.

The Reader's Advisor's Office helped 11,882 men, women and teen-agers find information for student assignments and books for personal growth and reading pleasure.

Study material for 8th grade and high school equivalency examinations was provided for 630 adults.

Teachers, students, artists and designers borrowed 9,716 pictures from the Art and Music Department's file, using them for illustrative purposes and for creative inspiration.

Young adults joined in branch activities as members of the Guitar Club, Future Brides' Club and Babysitters' Training Class.

PPL preserved for you and future generations the heritage of the past and the important materials of the present.

Two additions of historical importance were added to the Rhode Island Collection in 1968: Rhode Island photographs, maps and pamphlets from the estate of John Hutchins Cady, well-known Providence architect and historian, and 1500 pictures of old Newport from Mr. Wilfred Warren of Newport. Over half of these are reproductions from glass plates made in the late nineteenth century.

6,626 new titles covering the full range of your reading interests were added to the Library and 25,381 volumes processed.

The Library expanded its collection in the fields of Negro history and culture.

PPL knows that it must do more than wait passively for you to discover it. In 1968, we continued to go out into the community to reach those who might be unaware of our services.

The bookmobile circulated 51,570 books at housing projects, schoolyards, playgrounds and homes for the aged.

Stoop Storytelling—
Mrs. Constance Andrews, Bookmobile Librarian.

Children's librarians visited 714 classrooms in 117 schools; they conducted 261 story-telling programs at community centers, nursery schools and Head Start classes. They spent the summer months "stoop storytelling," going outside the Library and stopping wherever they found children to listen.

In September, we appointed a liaison worker between the Library and the South Providence community to make that neighborhood more aware of the Library's interest and its ability to provide services that are really wanted and needed.

Book deposits were sent to agencies such as the Providence Multi-Purpose Senior Citizens' Center, Bradford House, "Friends For People," and the Home for Aged Women.

Among printed booklists issued were "The Theatre" and "Phaedra," published in conjunction with dramas presented by the Trinity Square Repertory Theatre Company and distributed at Trinity performances and "Vietnam: Pro and Con," books selected to explore all aspects of the Vietnam problem.

Mr. Charles M. Adams, Center Coordinator of the Opportunities Industrialization Center of Rhode Island, discusses the library book deposit at OIC with Richard Metts, community liaison worker for PPL.

PPL used a portion of the 1967 city bond issue of $500,000 and state and federal funds from the Department of State Library Services to improve its buildings in order to serve you more efficiently.

A section of the main library was remodeled into a modern book order, cataloging and processing center and a data processing facility.

The Periodical Department was enlarged and renovated.

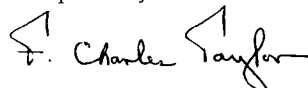

In March, the new wing of the modernized Mount Pleasant Branch was dedicated.

The South Providence Branch was modernized and redecorated.

PPL serves more than the City of Providence.

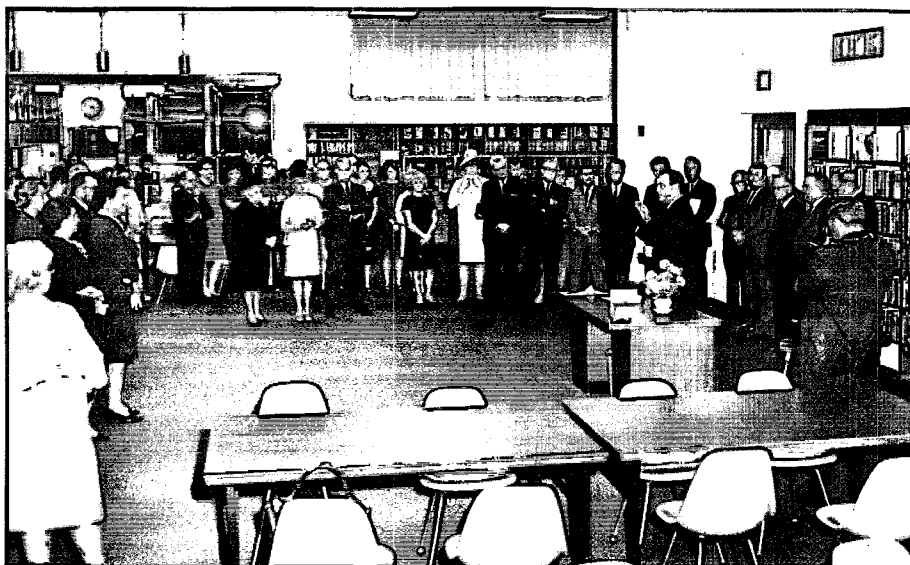

In its function as the Principal Public Library in the State of Rhode Island's "Interrelated Library System," the Library served as consultant to other libraries, conducted workshops for Rhode Island librarians and strengthened its own collection in order to provide books and information by means of a teletype and delivery system. The teletype system was also used to locate materials not owned by PPL, but available from college, special and other public libraries both in and out of the state. Thus, we helped community libraries improve service to their patrons and made the resources of the Providence Public Library accessible to all Rhode Island residents.

Respectfully submitted,
