INVOCATION

The Invocation is given by COUNCILOR RACHEL M. MILLER.

"As we convene tonight, let us honor the lives lost to COVID-19, here in Providence and around the world. Let's express our empathy and love to all of the families that are grieving in isolation and also honor all of the people who are on the front lines of this crisis. The healthcare workers, the parents, students and teachers, public workers, emergency workers, grocery workers, pharmacy workers and so many others. Let us ask for guidance in our decision making tonight and every day in our role as public servants, that we may have the strength and the compassion to recognize that the impact of this crisis is felt unevenly, that is taking an unequal toll on people in vulnerable positions. The homeless, poor and emergency people, unemployed people and people in situations of domestic violence and abuse and communities of color. So, let's ask for guidance tonight that we may have the grace and the wisdom to work together collaboratively and to hold the communities that are struggling right now at the forefront of our decision making. Amen."
