Figure 1 consists of two line graphs. The left graph plots 'Growth rate (log CFU/h)' on the y-axis (0 to 1.5) against 'Temperature (°C)' on the x-axis (20 to 45). It shows two data series: a control (open circles) and a mutant (filled circles). Both series show a peak in growth rate around 37°C, with the control reaching approximately 1.4 log CFU/h and the mutant reaching approximately 1.2 log CFU/h. The right graph plots 'Growth rate (log CFU/h)' on the y-axis (0 to 1.5) against 'Temperature (°C)' on the x-axis (20 to 45). It shows two data series: a control (open circles) and a mutant (filled circles). Both series show a peak in growth rate around 37°C, with the control reaching approximately 1.4 log CFU/h and the mutant reaching approximately 1.2 log CFU/h.

The figure consists of two separate line graphs. The left graph plots 'Rate of reaction' on the y-axis against 'Temperature (°C)' on the x-axis. The curve starts at a low rate at 10°C, rises to a peak at 30°C, and then declines at 40°C. The right graph also plots 'Rate of reaction' on the y-axis against 'Temperature (°C)' on the x-axis. This curve shows a steep, exponential increase in the rate of reaction as temperature rises from 10°C to 30°C, and then the rate levels off or plateaus at 40°C.

1. The first step in the process of identifying a problem is to define the problem. This involves identifying the symptoms of the problem and determining the scope of the problem. Once the problem has been defined, the next step is to identify the causes of the problem. This involves identifying the factors that are contributing to the problem and determining the underlying causes. Once the causes have been identified, the next step is to develop a plan to address the problem. This involves identifying the actions that need to be taken to address the problem and determining the resources that will be needed to implement the plan. Finally, the last step in the process is to implement the plan and monitor the results. This involves putting the plan into action and tracking the progress of the plan to ensure that the problem is being addressed effectively.
