Members of Providence Pension Retirement Board

With regret and with gratitude for the privilege of serving the citizens of Providence for six years since 1997 as a Pro Bono Public Member of the Pension Retirement Board, I am now submitting my resignation from the Board, effective December 31, 2003. I have many people to thank for instructing and assisting me in this important work: my predecessor on the Board, Dr. James Crowley, who encouraged me to succeed him in 1997; former City Solicitor Charles Mansolillo, who oriented me to the Board's work; City Council President John Lombardi, who supported my original candidacy in 1997 and my re-election in 2001; Assistant City Solicitor Kenneth Cheverini, who has provided me and the Board with wise counsel for several years; Pension Administrator Edward Lynch, whose prodigious and efficient work has enabled the Board to evaluate and act on the numerous complex issues on its agenda; the loyal staff members of the City Clerk's Office and Personnel Office, always dependable and helpful in our monthly meetings; my fellow Public Member Carla Dowben, whose wisdom and sense of justice were always highly visible; Dr. Guy Geffroy, Consultant to the Board, whose analytic skills and balanced judgments were invaluable in helping us arrive at many difficult decisions; Mayor David Cicilline and current City Solicitor Joseph Fernandez, whose attendance at our meetings has had a salutary effect on the Board's proceedings and deliberations; and finally my fellow Board members, who have taught me much about the complexities of friendship, loyalty, resolutions of disputes and the responsibilities of public service. I will miss them and will not forget them.

Sincerely,

Melvin Hershkowitz, M.D.
